WOMEN ARE URGED TO TRAIN AS NURSES

Needs of Our Army and Navy Must Be Met to Utmost Extent.

"In the United States today is found a large proportion of the available nursing service of the world. Our allies in this war are looking to us to supplement their nursing service. If the women of America fail to realize their duty at this time the American men who have been called upon to offer their lives for their country may suffer accordingly."

This was a statement recently made by Miss Jane A. Delano, director of the American Red Cross nursing service.

"If this war goes on we shall be compelled to extract aid to the last fraction of trained nursing material available in the United States," said Miss Delano. "The men on the fighting fronts must be nursed back to health. They are relying in large measure upon the American nurses for this service; the nurses must not fail them."

"The problem confronting us is to meet to the utmost extent, with the trained nursing personnel available in the United States, the needs of our army and navy and the armies of our allies, protecting as best we may the welfare of our civilian population."

"Several thousand American nurses are now in France assigned to duty in the various branches of the military service and almost as many more are needed for our own cantonment hospitals. If we are to continue to meet the demands made upon us, the women of the country must be willing to accept equal sacrifices with the men. The public, too, must be willing to sacrifice the service of nurses who are required for military purposes."

"For many years to come, the demand for women trained for nursing, including woman welfare work and health service, will increase tremendously, and to meet this need women of ability and education can do no better than to take seriously the work of training as nurses believing that they are not only qualifying themselves for most important service on the completion of their course, but that even during the period of training they are helping to solve the nursing problems confronting us."

Johnny's Essay.
A boy with the snows of twelve winters on his head was responsible for the following "howler" in a Latin essay. Among celebrities occurred the names of Copernicus and Galileo. The view of these worthies taken by our youthful writer was as follows: "Copernicus is a mixture of copper and nickel. Galileo cared for none of these things."—London Tit-Bits.

HIS EYE SKINNED FOR 20 YEARS

Well-Known Expert Makes a New Find.
New York, N. Y.—P. B. Elker, widely and favorably known throughout the country as an expert on new discoveries, announced today, through the Bureau of Chemical Co., New York City, that he has found a formula he had been on the lookout for for 20 years, which he has reason to believe is an unfailing treatment of so-called Ricketts disease, revealing gums, bleeding gums and nose teeth. The new prescription comes in the form of a medicated massage ointment called pyorice, which stays where it is put, unaffected by saliva, and is being dispensed in original packages, price one dollar, at best drug stores, including George S. Sides in Chicago.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

New York Markets.

New York, Jan. 23.—The stock market drifted aimlessly today, a firm opening being succeeded by irregular declines, these in turn giving way to a general rally with yet another set back toward the close.

The final reversals came on the heels of Secretary McAdoo's statement before a congressional committee in which he again urged prompt action on pending railroad legislation, with a direct reference to its bearing upon further government loans to be floated by the end of the fiscal year.

Other Washington developments which serve to unsettle the market include the extension of the freight embargo and maintenance of the existing price schedule on copper metals by the war board.

Specialties again comprised a very large part of the day's limited dealings, while rails and many other standard stocks were ignored or moved within narrow bounds.

Industrial conditions, especially the production of finished iron and steel were further aggravated by the freight blockade, according to trade authorities. United States steel was again the most active issue of the day, losing a point on persistent pressure.

Money on time was unchanged, but call loans continued to relax. Foreign exchange was not altered.

The bond market was irregular. Liberty 3½s sold at 98.25 to 98.16, first 4s at 97.16 to 96.90 and second 4s at 96.22 to 96.24.

United States bonds, old 2s and registered 4 advanced ½ and coupon 4s ½ on call.

PLAN MUSCLE RE-EDUCATION

Medical School Adds Course for Aid of Maimed Soldiers.

Re-education of muscles, a new branch of medical science developed by the war, will be added to the course at Hahnemann Medical college of Philadelphia. In explaining the idea, which has been tested in England and Canada, Professor Baker said when a man loses his right arm the muscles of the left arm are at first practically useless. Their adaptation to new uses can be greatly expedited by special training.

The Garden of Allah

Robert Hichen's Thrilling Romance of the Sahara.

"None but God and I know what is in my heart!"

There at Bent-Mora, at the edge of the Saharan desert, the Sand Diviner foretold to Daniel Fendler, the English woman, what the threads of fate had woven. And yet—it is impossible to combat Fate—and Love is also blind. When Boris the stranger came all else was nothing to the woman who loved—the more passionately because she had never before known Love!

And when the storm broke—when the sky suddenly darkened and the wind came—and the stinging, gray-like sand rained down, Daniel and Boris began their homeward journey out into the sand dunes of the desert.

Mystery lies coiled in the shining heart of the East, and the mystery of Love seems there to overcast all other earthly things. The man and the woman were happy there in the desert until—

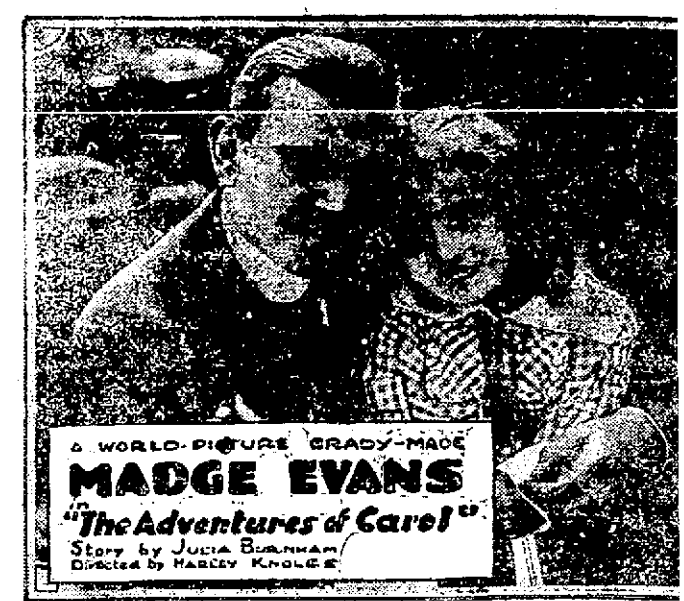

Came a day when the cup of remorse was drained to its dregs—came a day when the notes of love no longer sounded and there was reason for renunciation. And what did the woman do there in the desert with her great love? What would you do—a woman?

"WHY STAND YE HERE ALL THE DAY IDLE?"

Matthew XX-6

For nearly 2,000 years these words have gone ringing down the ages, a whip to the slothful, a shame to the indolent. But never before carried they such meaning as RIGHT NOW.

Today the world has need of the labor of every man, of every woman. Civilization is in the balance; Liberty is at stake. Every hour's productive work helps; every hour of indolence hinders.

Don't be a barnacle! Don't be so much dead weight for the overburdened world to carry. Take hold and LIFT! Go in somewhere—anywhere—and put your shoulder to the wheel. PUSH!

"Carnegie once said: To die rich is to die disgraced." The world says: To be idle today is shameful; criminal!

The glorious women of Russia, before the dreamers unhorsed those whose eyes were wide open, rushed into the battle for Liberty—a veritable BATTALION OF DEATH.

The splendid women of America responded as nobly to the call for workers—A VERITABLE BATTALION OF LIFE!

Read the paragraphs bordering this letter. See what women are doing! ARE YOU AMONG THEM?

If you are LIFTING, PUSHING, PRODUCING, then all honor to you!

If you are still IDLE—still walking the streets in shoes which other women make—then, in the name of conscience, for the fair name and fame of LIBERTY and humanity and fair play

GO TO WORK FOR SOMEBODY!

—Wisconsin sawmills now employ hundreds of girls.

—Two women have been added to Atlanta's detective force.

—Women canteen workers in the French army are making use of the German prisoners by having them make tin cups from old tin cans.

—All the Emperesses of Russia throughout the nineteenth century with the exception of the wife of Alexander III, were German princesses.

—Women employed in the Chicago stock yards work 10 hours a day.

—The empress of Japan is one of the hardest workers in the interest of the Red Cross relief work in that country.

—The Chicago Milk Drivers' union is seeking women to replace men drivers who have been called away to war.

—Seventy-nine per cent of the women employed in the large establishments of Germany are being made to work from 11 to 12 hours a day.

—Women in Great Britain who have taken the places formerly held by men, now number a million and a quarter.

LOCAL MENTION.

—R. P. Hill, who sustained several cracked ribs in an accident at the roundhouse some time ago, had recovered sufficiently to return to work last evening.

It was reported that one man attempting to bring a load of baled hay over the Swart Hollow road sustained a fractured shoulder when his load overturned on the side of the mountain. FEAST OF LITTLE LANTERNS

Dainty Chinese Operetta Adequately Presented Last Evening with No Assistance from Mere Man.

The younger members of the Woman's club of Oneonta distinguished themselves last evening in the presentation at the High school auditorium of the dainty Chinese operetta, "The Feast of the Little Lanterns," by Paul Bliss. The members of the cast had been faithfully drilled for many days and the result of their untiring efforts as presented last evening was greatly to be commended. Alike in solo parts and chorus work the young ladies showed the effects of excellent training. The varied costumes were appropriate and the stage setting with cherry blossoms, lanterns and peacocks, was artistic and beautiful. Preceding the operetta and between the acts several musical selections were given by that excellent organization, the High School orchestra.

While the plot of the production was of the slightest, it served admirably as a thread whereon to hang the various musical numbers. By the edict of the emperor, the estates and palace which Princess Chan had inherited from her father was to become the property of the state unless before a certain time a brother or sister should be found, in which case it descends to both. There had been such a sister, but she had been lost in the mountains years before. While Princess Chan bewails her sad lot, a juggler appears at court, and later, by means of the matched halves of a broken coin, her identity with the lost sister is disclosed.

It is a slender plot, but the accompanying music is of the finest. Following the opening chorus and a solo by Mrs. Mills, Mrs. R. Bruce Colburn as Fro Long, sang with excellent effect, "There Ought to be a Law in China," winning heartiest applause. Miss Eva Trauger as Wee Ling delighted everybody with "The Ghost Song," and "The Juggler," by Miss Sarah Emery was a not less charming production, while Mrs. David H. Mills as Princess Chan in the leading part, fully sustained her well-earned reputation.

Between the acts there was a Chinese dance with fans and parasols, wherein members of the chorus added to the honors previously won. The second act opened with a finely rendered solo, "Oh, Beautiful," by Mrs. Mills, and there was both mirth and music in the well sung and acted melody, "Peacock's Tail," by Miss Trauger. Other features no less meritorious, "Up Her Sleeve," by Mrs. Colburn, a duet by Miss Emery and Mrs. Mills, a Chinese dance by Miss Dorothy Allen, and the chorus numbers which completed the program.

The entertainment, which was given for the benefit of the Red Cross, will probably yield a net sum of $75 to that worthy cause.

Mention of the operetta would be far from complete if it failed to refer to the fine work of Miss Carol Stewart as accompanist and of the several members of the chorus, who did much to make the entertainment a success. The members of the chorus were Misses Helen Wilder, Elizabeth Tarbox, Aurelia Trauger, Margaret Curran, Margaret Morris, Gertrude McLean, David and Jane Miller, Mrs. J. D. Van Woeit, Mrs. Harold Reed, Mrs. Earl Anibal, Mrs. Edward McLean, Mrs. Frank M. Gurney.

RED CROSS CHAUFFEURS.

Men Must Be Out of Draft Age and of Sound Health.

The American Red Cross has amended its call for volunteers for drivers and repair men for the automobile transportation service in France so that men out of the draft age, whose parents are naturalized American citizens born in a country at war with the allies, may be accepted. This is done so that no trouble may arise between the organization and the local boards.

Though the men wanted must be strong and healthy, it is stated that the service offers an opportunity to men who have been rejected by the United States army for some slight physical defect. Applications, it is pointed out, must be accompanied by three letters of recommendation from American born citizens. The pay for this service is $25 a month, including uniform, equipment and transportation expenses.

A number of women are meeting in the Red Cross rooms nearly every morning now, cutting gauze into small pieces so that it can be used for the making of surgical dressings. Eight hundred yards of the material are cut every week.

Yesterday afternoon and evening about 50 women worked at headquarters and turned out 897 small compresses, 12 large compresses, 94 gauze pads and 40 gauze sponges.

EXPLAIN CLASSIFICATION CARDS.

Only Notice of Where Registrant Has Been Placed.

Registrants receiving the notices of classification now being sent out by the Local Board apparently do not understand their meaning, judging by the number who bring them to the board for explanation. The cards simply indicate the class in which the registrant has been placed and notify him that appeals from such classification may be taken within a certain time and in a certain manner. There is no necessity for the registrant to bring the card to the board unless he wishes to file an appeal.

The following classifications were made by the board yesterday. The dependency claims of William Rogers, Maurice A. Rowland, Edward J. Stack and Carl F. Shotts were disallowed and they will go in class 1. The physical disability claims of Lawrence E. Bennett, James H. Wilber and William F. Clausen were disallowed. The two former were placed in class 1. Clausen will also go in that class unless his agricultural claim is allowed by the District Board.

No claims for deferred classification were made by the following, and they were placed in the first group: Clyde E. Rowe, Michael Barbaro, Martin S. Donlin, Wallace Coyle, William H. Holmes, Leon Weeks, Frank Oliver, Harry W. Panton, Harrison E. Ash, James E. Smith Jr., Frank C. Huntington, Ray Christian, Earl D. Clark and William G. Sherburne.

Elliott P. Shaw was placed in class 2 and the following in class 4: Robert Dale, Raymond L. Barnes, Henry Schuder, Floyd J. Arnoys, Morton Moffatt, Leroy Shaffer, John M. St. Clair, Carroll S. Streeter, Joseph L. Edwards, Herbert W. Schoonmaker, Clark A. Potter, Sanford R. D. Penner, Ralph Hugh Taylor, George G. Stillwell, George M. Allen, Earl V. Moffatt, Stanley G. Knowles, Clement A. Bowers, William J. Vaughn, Virgil E. Smith, Earl S. Walsh, Ray F. Howland, Eli Roe, Frank W. Gardner, Hilam M. Tiffany, Walter Safford, Siemari Waken, Harry A. Howard, Earl L. Georgia, Earl Torrey, John J. Steidle, Ford E. Smith, Frankie Palmer, Alvin G. Jones, Charles W. Colvin, Robert C. Grigg, Stanley R. Wilber and Charles Markert.

Those placed in class 5 are George L. Robinson, Arnold D. VanDumble, Harold S. Smith, Arthur L. Polley, George M. Platt and Bruce Griffin, already in the service; Fred Demesko, Asid E. Hasham, Melba Michelangelo and James Kolen, aliens claiming exemption.

ENTERTAINS EMPLOYEES.

George I. Wilber Has Thirty Guests at Social Gathering at Home.

The 20 employees of George I. Wilber and of the Wilber National bank, were entertained by him at his residence last evening. Among the members of the party were some who have been in continuous service for more than 20 years and on a larger number for a period of over 20 years.

The evening was passed very pleasantly in recalling the experiences and associates of former days and many very happy occasions were recalled and many amusing incidents as well, while the former associates were about exception recalled with pleasant memories. Few in the party could recall the days of the horse cars or of the toboggan slide at Wilber park, although there were some that had memorable happenings to relate in connection with those enterprises. Late in the evening refreshments were served in addition to the present employees, Sergeant George J. Fletcher of the Quartermaster's corps at Fort Ethan Allen was present.

GREAT SCREEN SPECTACLE.

"Intolerance," a Magnificent Attraction, to be Shown at Strand Today Only.

The outstanding attraction of this season or any other theatrical season known locally is to be seen at the Strand today only, when D. W. Griffith's colossal work "Intolerance" will be unfolded here. It is impossible to speak of this mighty achievement and not appear exaggerated. It is the biggest thing ever dreamed of by any dramatist in the world and is carried through to the most logical conclusion along lines that are simply astounding. 125,000 people fill its stories with action, and 7,000 horses and 1,500 chariots not to mention elephants and wild animals and birds of the jungle and the Far East lend their enthralling features in the outlining of the events which are crowded into nearly 6,000 scenes of splendor, drama, excitement, adventure, romance, love episodes.

This is the first time this attraction has been shown for this low price, and offers at a price within the reach of all a dollar and a half production for twenty-five cents. Out of town people and all others possible should attend the matinee performance. There will be a symphony orchestra both matinee and evening. Doors open, matinee 1:30, in the evening 6:15. There will be three shows: Matinee 2:30; evening, two shows, 7 and 9:15 sharp. advt. 11

DELIGHTS (?) OF MOTORING.

Experiences of F. J. Campbell in Driving Through Snow Banks.

Yesterday Fred J. Campbell, with Mrs. Campbell, experienced some of the delights (?) of winter motoring which they will not soon forget. The previous day he observed that cars had been through from Oneonta to Oneonta and when he and his wife decided to come to Oneonta from Oneonta by motor car they had visions of reaching the city in comparatively quicker time than to wait for trains that were thought quite likely to be late. They left home at about 9 o'clock and had not progressed far before they discovered that the snow was drifting quite badly. Not daunted, however, Mr. Campbell resolved to make the trip if possible and one bank after another was conquered, though not without some difficulty and more or less of tramping in front of the wheels to make a pathway. It was long past 12 o'clock when they reached the farm of Howard L. Day at the Plains, where they decided that it were folly to continue the effort further and they left the car there, walked to the Shady-side corner and caught a trolley car after a short wait and arrived in the business center of the city at about 1:30 o'clock, tired and weary, but confident that they knew more than when they started of the delights (?) of winter motoring in the snow.

WAR LEAVES MAN SIGHTLESS AND ARMLESS

Another Hero Brings to Victim Priceless Reward.

ROMANCE OF THE TRENCHES

Village Belle on Hearing of the Maiming of Farmer Boy Acquaintance Offers to Marry Him—Care of Sightless and Armless Husband Granted Example of the Spirit of the Women of France.

"A Metro" train pulled into the Alma station on the Champs Elysees line. It was nearly six o'clock and every seat was taken and the aisles were crowded. The crowd, as in the New York subway during rush hours, packed itself tightly around the side doors of the cars.

A slender, fair-haired, well-dressed girl—not more than twenty years old—managed to burst through the knot of officers, fashionably gowned women and civilians who were jammed at the center side door of the first-class car. Behind her trailed a man wearing the uniform of a French soldier.

She held his sleeve clutched tightly in her hand, and he followed her with fumbling steps. No sooner had they entered than the train started, and the girl, still pulling the soldier after, edged away from the door and to the nearest seats—there are cross seats like in railway cars in the Paris underground system.

Two young women, clad in lars and silks, their blackened eyes, scarlet lips and crimsoned cheeks proclaiming those of the demi-monde, were occupying the nearest seats.

"Will you please give your place to a mangle of the war?" said the fair-haired girl, the soldier always at her heels.

Instantly, as the crowded train started with curious eyes, both women arose. The girl pushed her companion forward from out of the crowd and he sat down. She sat beside him.

When the soldier sat down one could understand why the girl led him, and why he stumbled uncertainly. He was sightless, and the blue powder marks still staining his cheeks and forehead showed what had blinded him.

And as he sat there one could see why the fair-haired girl had led him by the sleeve. He had no hands! Both arms had been amputated just below the elbow.

Sorrows of Their Own.

The crowd stared as crowds will stare—some curiously, some feelingly, some compassionately, for they had undergone their own sorrows in this war, others critically as they wondered who the bent "old" fair-haired girl might be and what was the name of the soldier hero.

Nearly all had thought, when the girl entered the car with her companion, that she was an American, one of those engaged in war relief work and attached to a hospital or home for the blind, mangle of the war. Such sights are common in Paris; American girls and women take blinded and crippled soldiers walking in the Bois de Boulogne, in the Champs Elysees, in the Tuilleries gardens. And they take them to the outdoor terraces of the cafes along the grande boulevards and to theaters, too.

But the perfect French uttered by the fair-haired girl when she requested the seat for her companion indicated clearly enough she was no American. She was French, born and bred.

The soldier, a young, rugged, black-haired figure, clad in the familiar line regimental uniform of the French line regiments, wore the Croix de Guerre, with two palms and a star, the Medaille Militaire and the Cross of the Legion of Honor, pinned to his tunic. France has no other medals.

He sat half facing her and the girl sat half facing toward him. He nudged her with the stamp of the arm nearer her and she took it under her own arm. The soldier was plainly greatly fatigued and he leaned toward her, whispering something.

Soldier and Bride.

Apparently in answer to his request, she removed the horizon-line kepi with the gold numerals, "107," indicating the number of his regiment, on the front, and smoothed his shock of raven black hair. When his hat was removed one could see a great V-shaped scar in the front of his scalp, where trepanning had been resorted to for a fractured skull.

The girl kept the kepi in her lap and the blind soldier leaned his head on her shoulder. His eyesless face was close to her milky white throat. Then she turned her head toward him and kissed him lightly on the cheek.
